

Leidos to Showcase Army Readiness and Modernization Solutions at AUSA 2019

October 8, 2019

RESTON, Va., Oct. 8, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Leidos (NYSE:LDOS), a FORTUNE® 500 science and technology leader will demonstrate innovative solutions that accelerate the future of U.S. Army readiness and modernization in booth #2003 at the Association of the U.S. Army's annual exposition and conference from Oct. 14-16 at the Walter E. Washington Convention Center, in Washington D.C. The Leidos team will showcase a variety of differentiated capabilities driven by investments in the next generation of tools, technologies, and systems that support the Army's current fight and future adaptations.

The Leidos booth will also display a variety of demonstrations including: Assured Data Engine for Positioning and Timing, Consolidated Analytic Framework, Cyber Adversarial Reasoning, Leidos Special Mission Aircraft featuring an aviation maintenance management information system, Base Defense Modernization, Tactical Decision Kit featuring augmented reality and virtual reality, Time Integration Gigawatt Electromagnetic Response, and Emerging Training Technologies. Additionally, the booth will feature informative videos on topics such as readiness, data quality and systems, and software defined networks.

"The U.S. Army and joint forces face unprecedented challenges as near peer adversaries work to separate the U.S. and its partners politically in space, time and function," said Gerry Fasano, Leidos Defense Group president. "From aircraft to algorithms, Leidos will showcase solutions that address those challenges and ready the force of the future to deploy, fight and win decisively."
