

General Services Administration Awards Leidos Information Technology and Development Services Contract

January 29, 2018

RESTON, Va., Jan. 29, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Leidos (NYSE: LDOS), a FORTUNE 500® science, information technology, and engineering leader, was awarded a prime contract by the General Services Administration (GSA), Office of Chief Information Officer for the Office of Public Buildings Information Technology Services (ITS) to provide information technology (IT), operation, and maintenance services with the potential to modernize and enhance legacy systems to improve organizational performance. The multiple-award, blanket purchase agreement has a one-year base period, four one-year option periods, and a total contract value of approximately $250 million. Leidos is one of seven contractors eligible to compete for task orders under the program.

The PBS aims to provide effective and sustainable workplace solutions for federal agencies at the best value for the American Taxpayer. Work will be performed in Crystal City, Va. and will include technology development and support for a portfolio including 20 applications. Leidos will perform various IT services such as design, database and application development, support specialized building life-cycle systems and mobile, cloud and digital services. Work will help establish a continuous process improvement function and identify IT investments that can better enable operational processes.

"We look forward to expanding our partnership with the GSA and providing innovative technology solutions that create efficiencies," said Angela Heise, Leidos Civil Group President.
