

SAIC Completes Acquisition of SM Consulting, Inc.

May 21, 2008

SAN DIEGO and MCLEAN, Va., May 21, 2008 /PRNewswire-FirstCall via COMTEX News Network/ -- Science Applications International Corporation (NYSE: SAI) announced today that it has completed the acquisition of SM Consulting, Inc. (SMC). Headquartered in Linthicum, Md., SMC employs more than 460 people and provides services in language, intelligence, information technology, management consulting, business process outsourcing, training, and logistics to federal, state and local governments and private industry.

SMC offers extensive domain expertise in linguistic services, providing foreign language translation, interpretation and training services in the defense and intelligence communities. The company is a leading provider on the General Services Administration Language Services schedule, and its training services program is accredited by the nationally recognized Accrediting Council for Continuing Education and Training.

SMC will join SAIC's Mission Integration Business Unit, headquartered in Reston, Va.

"SMC's employees and management team share SAIC's steadfast customer commitment and mission focus," said Stu Shea, president of SAIC's Intelligence, Security and Technology Group. "While both organizations offer outstanding support for programs that are vital to our nation, together we will be positioned to apply greater capabilities, deeper expertise and broader experience in this important domain. That creates exciting opportunities for our employees, our company and our customers. We are very pleased to welcome SMC to the SAIC team."
