Leidos and Sky Solutions launch Purple Sky joint venture to accelerate federal digital transformation

September 24, 2025

RESTON, Va., Sept. 24, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- Leidos (NYSE:LDOS) and Sky Solutions recently formed Purple Sky, LLC, a joint venture focused on helping federal health agencies deliver better outcomes for people using government services.

Purple Sky's customer priorities include delivering advanced digital services to help federal agencies upgrade technology, improve access to data, and strengthen mission outcomes, especially in health, human services, and benefits delivery. Its approach is designed to help agencies to operate more quickly, with fewer errors, and build public trust.

"Our goal is to help government agencies modernize with confidence by combining innovation with the security, scale and reliability the federal mission demands," said Milad Bahrami, senior vice president of Health Solutions at Leidos.

The joint venture will leverage both companies' expertise in cloud, AI, and cybersecurity while combining the proven experience Leidos has deploying large-scale technology solutions with Sky Solutions' strengths in low-code/no-code platform development to help federal customers meet their missions on time and on budget.

"This partnership is about solving real-world problems," said Anil Boinapalli, CEO of Sky Solutions. "The name Purple Sky reflects our shared commitment to collaboration and unity, bringing together our strengths to deliver secure, scalable solutions that help agencies and the communities they serve."

Agencies can access these solutions through the General Services Administration multiple award schedule, making it easier to implement modern technology like AI, cloud systems and automated processes.
